The pandemic working group recommends that all advisory service staff offer consultation via phone or email wherever possible.

As the development of the coronavirus situation is very dynamic, we will regularly update the information included on our website uni.kn/coronavirus. Please carefully read through the information included in the most current issue of EIN|BLICK.

The following matters are particularly important for those giving personal consultation:

1. The following persons are no longer permitted to enter the university campus and must leave immediately if they happen to be on campus:
   a) Anyone who is infected with COVID-19.
   b) Anyone who has returned or travelled from one of the COVID-19 risk areas to the University of Konstanz (including stays, stopovers or change of train/bus etc. in these areas) up to 14 days after the stay in the risk area. Please check daily which areas have been defined as risk areas by the Robert Koch Institute (RKI).
   c) Anyone who has or had close (bodily) contact to those returning/travelling from a COVID-19 risk area or who lives in the same household as such a person.
   d) Anyone who has had contact to a person infected with COVID-19 (e.g. bodily contact or a talk lasting about 15 minutes or more, more details are available on the Robert Koch Institute website).
   e) Anyone who experiences flu-like symptoms, as these are also typical of the COVID-19 disease.

2. Please point out the hygienic measures we have published on the website uni.kn/coronavirus.
